4 Early Auto Mishaps Probed

Truck Driver Hurt At Rts. 14 and 164

State Highway Patrolmen investigated only four auto mishaps Saturday and Sunday despite heavy July 4th holiday traffic which crowded highways. One truck driver received minor injuries.

Glenn E. Ehrman, 32, of Monroe, Ind., suffered abrasions of his right knee when his truck and a truck driven by Wilbur H. Martin, 38, of RD 2, Columbiana, collided at the Routes 14 and 164 intersection, near Columbiana, at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Ehrman's vehicle, northbound on Route 164, was struck by the truck operated by Martin when its brakes failed, patrolmen said. Martin was cited for driving with defective brakes.

The trucks after colliding, knocked down a power pole at the intersection causing a power failure in the area for a short while, patrolmen said.

A 16-year-old East Palestine motorist was cited into Juvenile Court after his car rammed into the rear of an auto driven by William E. Steffy, 29, of Greensburg, Pa., on Route 14, east of Columbiana, at 1:35 a.m. Sunday.

Patrolmen said Steffy was traveling east on Route 14 and had stopped to make a left turn into the Casanova Nite Club when the East Palestine youth, James McCready, ran into him.

Only slight damage was done to the two cars, patrolmen said.

An estimated $150 damage was done to a truck driven by Charles Musta, 24, of Coropolis, Pa. when it ran off the Depot Rd., near Guilford Lake, at 9 p.m. Saturday.

Unhurt, Musta told patrolmen he was run off the road into the ditch by an unidentified truck.

Defective steering gear caused a truck driven by James Elliott, 48, of East Liverpool to leave Route 267, a mile north of East Liverpool, at 4:55 p.m. Saturday and strike a pole.

ate Finance Committee, said in an interview that Senate passage of the administration's tax bill in his opinion makes it unnecessary to raise the legal limit on government borrowing.

"The revenue loss from this bill is not as much as had been anticipated," the Virginia senator said. "I don't think it is necessary to raise the limit now, particularly since the Treasury has about six billion dollars on hand and can borrow another five billion under the present limit."

"The Treasury said last year when it didn't get the increase that it would be in all kinds of financial difficulties. But they cut back expenditures by two billion dollars and the country hasn't gone to pot."

Administration officials have made it clear they will ask the Finance Committee to act on a bill approved by the House last year to lift the limit to 290 billion dollars. They have indicated they will be willing to compromise on a lesser increase.

Chairman Ferguson (Mich.) of the Senate Republican Policy Committee said he expects a formal administration request for action soon. He said attempts will be made to bring the issue to a vote in the Senate before Congress adjourns, around the end of July.

But Republican leaders were not at all certain of holding their ranks intact in a controversy involving the political issue of further deficit spending.

Williams Not Convinced

Sen. Williams (R-Del.), a Finance Committee member and one of the Senate conferees on the tax bill, said he has yet to be convinced the debt limit ought to be raised. Although the Senate version of the tax bill would mean only about 10 million dollars in revenue loss in the next year, in subsequent years the loss might exceed one billion dollars annually.

Sen. George (D-Ga.), another key member of the Finance Committee, said he wants to see what sort of agreement can be reached on compromising Senate-House differences in the tax measure before he decides finally how he will vote on a debt limit increase.

There are indications that Treasury officials would be willing to settle for some sort of compromise under which some government debts could be taken out from under the statutory limitation but Byrd said he wants none of that and would rather vote for a straight increase.

There also was a possibility that a boost of from 5 to 8 billion dollars in the ceiling would be proposed within the Senate committee, rather than the 15 billion increase which the House has approved.

Unless the Senate acts this year, the administration would have to start all over again in the next Congress to get approval by both Houses for any increase.

California Mishap Claims Area Woman

Mrs. Donald Rea, daughter of Mrs. Minnie Kuhns of Greenford and the late Harry Kuhns, was killed instantly Thursday at 1:30 p.m. when the car driven by her mother-in-law, Mrs. Ora Rea, was hit by a semi-truck near San Luis Obispo, Calif.

The elder Mrs. Rea, who is in critical condition with a concussion and other injuries, resides at Hanford.

Wage Dispute Threatens to Kill B.K. Patterson Dies Suddenly At His Home

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—A deadlocked wage dispute between Uncle Sam and half a million postal workers threatened today to kill prospective pay increases this year for 1½ million federal employees.

Caught in the pay squeeze is an administration-backed bill to raise postal rates 245 million dollars a year, including a penny increase in the cost of mailing letters.

Both postal pay and rate bills are being held up in the House as the result of administrative objections to any pay increases without first overhauling the hoary post office job and salary setup.

Organized postal groups have tried to override the House leadership and force a pay bill to the floor, but they appear to lack the necessary backing, and Congress may adjourn before any action is taken on this or related increases for a million other federal classified workers outside the postal system.

And until the pay issue is settled and the probable size of the post office deficit can be more clearly determined, administration leaders are also holding up action on a bill to raise rates on most classes of mail.

Organized postal employees asked for across-the-board raises of $800 a year and a date like request has been made by other classified government workers which, if granted, would add an estimated total of 2½ billion dollars a year to the cost of federal employment.

The House Post Office Committee, overriding Chairman Rees (R-Kan.), last month approved a bill by Rep. Corbett (R-Pa.) for a 7 per cent across-the-board increase in postal pay with a $240-a-year minimum and $480 maximum. The total increase would be about 200 million dollars a year.

The committee bill omitted the cost of eliminating dangerous curves on the Rt. 14 hill and installation of a new bridge over Beaver Creek at the bottom of the hill is estimated at $300,000.

'Fission Fleet' Sailors Preparing To Operate First Atomic Submarine

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—This country's first fission fleet sailors are polishing off—by land and by sea—the training they need to operate the world's first atomic submarine.

They've been dry land sailors almost three years, but the time is approaching when they will take the USS Nautilus on the first critical trials of a long series of tests.

During much of the last three years, the men have lived and worked on an arid plain in Idaho, while they helped to build and learned to operate the original, land-based prototype of the nuclear power plant that will drive the Nautilus.

Taking Refresher Course
So with their skipper, Cmdr. Eugene P. Wilkinson of Long Beach, Calif., they are taking a refresher course in seamanship as well as practicing up for operating a vessel unlike anything that has sailed before.

At the Navy's New London, Conn., submarine base the crew trains daily either in boats operating out of the base or in an amazing piece of machinery called the Askania Device. The Askania Device is to the submarine service what the Link Trainer is to airmen. While firmly grounded, it contains all the controls and simulates all the conditions of a submarine operating at sea.

The Nautilus' testing begins even before the crew casts off the lines and she moves out for the first time under her own, unique power from the fitting-out dock of the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp. at Groton, Conn.

Seek Trouble Spots
Using compressed air supplied from dockside high-pressure lines, the men are trying out every tank, pipe, conduit and compartment in the huge hull. Soap, applied to all fittings and seams, shows the tiniest bubble of air that could cause trouble later.

The vessel's controls and indicator system—including the "Christmas tree" board of red and green lights to show whether innumerable valves are closed or open—will be checked out thoroughly.

Then the Nautilus will be ready for the big day, probably sometime later this summer or early fall when she heads down the Thames River for Long Island Sound where the initial trials will be run.

Long Island Sound is only about 150 feet deep in the area used for shallow water tests.

When and if the Nautilus proves out to the satisfaction of all her technical and operating hands she will put out to the open sea for the deep dive trials. Only then will the Navy know definitely whether she will fulfill the specifications for a submarine that can travel deeper, farther and faster under water than any submersible ever built.

R. E. Small, manager of the store, said the two men approached him about 8:55 p.m. as he was making a deposit of the Saturday receipts at a night depository in the Mahoning National Bank branch in the plaza.

One of the men shoved a small automatic pistol into Small's side and ordered him to drop the bag. When he did, the other bandit grabbed the bag and the two ran to the rear of the building and jumped into a maroon coupe.

Small, who with several passersby, pursued the men to the rear of the plaza, said they drove west turning into the Boardman-Canfield Rd. He said he obtained the license number of the car.

The holdup occurred while it was still light enough to see the men clearly. Small said they wore no masks and were in their early thirties.

Final Truce Plans Left To Geneva Parley

French Union Forces Withdraw From Key Communication Point

HANOI, Indochina, July 4 (AP)—French Union and Vietminh officers held their first meeting today at Trung Gia, Indochina's Panmunjom, to consider details of a possible cease fire in the nearly eight-year-old Indochinese War.

Trung Gia is in the center of a neutral zone about 4½ miles in diameter carved out of Vietminh-held territory 25 miles north of Hanoi.

The chief rebel representative said he considered the meeting a "step forward" toward peace, while the French spokesman was careful to emphasize that any final decision on a truce is up to the Geneva conference.

Meeting War Postponed
The meeting was postponed from last Monday because of uneasiness on the part of France's Vietnamese allies over what concessions might be made to the Communist-led Vietminh. It came after the French disclosed they were pulling out of the southern sector of the Red River Delta to strengthen defenses farther north—a move which was denounced by Viet Nam political leaders. French Union forces under heavy rebel attack withdrew yesterday from Phu Ly, key communications center 35 miles south of Hanoi.

The conferees held a public session this morning, then reconvened later in closed session at French insistence to work out an agenda. The Vietminh had been ready to call it a day after the open meeting.

Marks Step Forward
"Discussions on the spot always have a greater chance of being concrete and realistic," Gen. Van Tien Dung, head of the Vietminh delegation, said. "We can say that the present meeting marks a step forward on the way toward the settlement of the Indochinese War by negotiation."

Pending Tax Bill Will Aid Farmers

DALLAS CITY, Ill., July 4 (AP)—Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) said today provisions in the pending tax bill granting tax write offs for the expense of building farm ponds and grain storage bins "will be a great aid to the farmer."

The Democratic senator spoke at the annual Tomato Festival observance in this town of 1,250 on the bank of the Mississippi River eight miles east of Fort Madison, Iowa.

Douglas was one of several Senate Democrats who waged a battle for revisions in the tax measure as passed by the House. They were defeated in attempts to raise the individual income exemption by $100, and to secure in lieu of that smaller flat tax credits.

He told the rural audience, however, that elimination of a proposed 10 per cent credit on dividends against taxes was a Democratic victory. The altered measure was approved by the Senate Friday.

The bill, now in a joint conference committee, is subject to further changes before final passage by both Senate and House.

The farm improvement credits permit a write off up to 25 per cent of gross income in any one year for expense of building ponds or grain storage facilities on the taxpayer's farm.

"The bill, as it was passed" by the Senate, Douglas said, "is very far from perfect. I would have preferred to have given an increase in the personal income tax exemption which would have benefited all taxpayers equally."

Great Thoughts

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the leading causes of flat feet in America at the turn of the century was Independence Day oratory.

People at the picnic lunch in the public park could feel their arches falling as they stood in throngs around the bandstand, listening to a pompous politician praise the founding fathers in hours-long speeches pockmarked with platitudes.

Today Americans don't celebrate the Fourth of July so much with oratory, firecrackers and professional flag waving. Our families just relax and enjoy the liberty to do as we please—a right our ancestors won through bloodshed, a right each generation since usually has had to preserve through bloodshed.

But great days deserve great thoughts. Here is what some famous minds of the past and present have thought on the tremendous theme of liberty, independence, freedom:

"Whoso would be man, must be a nonconformist"—Emerson.

"Independence, like honor, is a rocky island without a beach"—Napoleon.

"The world has never had a good definition of the word liberty"—Abraham Lincoln.

"Liberty means responsibility. That is why most men dread it"—Bernard Shaw.

"Follow your own bent no matter what people say"—Karl Marx.

"The strongest man in the world is he who stands most alone"—Henrik Ibsen.

"Paddle your own canoe"—Frederick Marryat.

"I would rather sit on a pumpkin and have it all to myself than be crowded on a velvet cushion"—H. D. Thoreau.

"So live that you can look any man in the eye and tell him to go to hell"—Unknown author, quoted by John D. Rockefeller Jr.

"Declarations of independence make nobody really independent"—George Santayana.

"Jefferson's Declaration of Independence is a practical document for the use of practical men. It is not a thesis for philosophers, but a whip for tyrants; it is not a theory of government, but a program of action"—Woodrow Wilson.

"Liberty is given by nature even to mute animals"—Tacitus.

"Among a people generally corrupt, liberty cannot long exist"—Edmund Burke.

"Liberty is always dangerous, but it is the safest thing we have"—Harry Emerson Fosdick.

"Man's liberty ends, and it ought to end, when that liberty becomes the curse of his neighbors"—Frederic William Farrar.

"The love of liberty is the love of others; the love of power is the love of ourselves"—William Hazlitt.

"He that would make his own liberty secure must guard even his enemy from oppression"—Thomas Paine.

"I would rather belong to a poor nation that was free than to a rich nation that had ceased to be 'in love with liberty. We shall not be poor if we love liberty'"—Woodrow Wilson.

"We are not to expect to be translated from despotism to liberty in a feather bed"—Thomas Jefferson.

"They that can give up essential liberty to obtain a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety"—Benjamin Franklin.

"Independence forever!"—exclamation by John Adams the morning of his death, July 4, 1826, when roused by holiday cannon fire. (Thomas Jefferson died the same day.)

"The United States is the only country with a known birthday"—James G. Blaine.

"They that can give up essential liberty to obtain a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety"—Benjamin Franklin.

PRIMER FOR AMERICANS

COPYRIGHT 1950.
SIGURD S. LARSON

You live in the United States of America. You are an American.

Real Americans like their country. They are proud of it. They think it is a good place to live. And they want to keep it good—to keep it getting better and better all the time.

Why is America the way it is? What makes it a good place to live? The answer is simply this:

Throughout our history most Americans have believed that every person has certain rights and duties and responsibilities.

Americans have believed that there are certain things that people should do, and other things they should not do.

They have also believed in certain things that people are, and are not.

These things that people believe are called principles. This book is an attempt to state the Principles of America in simple, primer fashion so that you can understand them, learn them, and remember them.

This is important. It was because earlier Americans believed in these principles and guided their lives by them, that America has grown to be the good place it is.

If all of us learn and remember these principles—if we also guide our lives by them—then we can help to keep America growing better, and better, and better.

And if we follow these Principles of America, we can help make the world a better place to live in, too.

The Principles of America are these . . .

1. Each Person is of Importance and Value as an Individual.

This is the cornerstone . . . the foundation of all our other beliefs in a person's right to live his own life, to speak for himself, to choose and change his leaders.

From it comes our hatred of those "isms" under which the individual has no value or importance as a person, but is only one of many unimportant people who have to live the way their leaders tell them to.

Coming directly from that first principle are two other principles that are also part of the foundation of Americanism.

2. We Believe that All Men should Enjoy Personal Freedom.

3. We Believe that All Men are Created Equal.

It is worth noting that the Declaration of Independence expressed the belief that "all men are created equal." It did not state or imply a belief that men develop equally or have equal ability, or that they should ever be forced to an exact equality of thought, speech or material possessions.

That would be equality without freedom. Americans have always believed the two should go together.

From the days of the Declaration of Independence and the writing of the Constitution, Americans have known that even though Life, Liberty, and other unalienable rights are granted to man by his Creator, they require some protection by man himself.

So, in our Constitution, and in other laws of our land, there are set down principles to protect the rights and freedoms and equality of individuals. And these principles play an important part in keeping America a good place in which to live.

4. The Right to Freedom of Speech.

This includes freedom of the press, of radio, of motion pictures, of every means by which man may express his thoughts on any subject.

5. The Right to Freedom of Assembly.

As we believe in the right of individual action, so we believe that individuals should be free to act together for the benefit of all. This IS Democracy.

6. The Right to Freedom of Worship.

Not only is the individual free to worship as he will, but religions themselves are free and equal . . . regardless of their size or their beliefs.

7. The Right to Security of Person and Property.

Not just one, but three Amendments to the Constitution (4th, 5th and 14th) protect against illegal search and seizure, or loss of life, liberty, or property, without "due process of law."

8. The Right to Equal Protection before the Law.

As individuals are equally important, so laws must apply equally to all, without special privileges for any particular individuals or groups.

9. The Right to Freedom from Slavery.

This includes "the right to quit," for no individual may be forced to work for another.

10. The Right to Petition the Government.

The legally guaranteed right of the individual to "petition the government for redress of grievances" is evidence of the American belief that government is the servant, not the master, of the people.

11. The Right to Vote for people of your choice.

This is the individual's most potent weapon in the protection of his rights and freedoms . . . a weapon that to be effective must be constantly and wisely used.

The Principles of America hold that every man has . . .

12. The Right to a Good Education.

13. The Right to Live where he pleases.

14. The Right to Work where he wants to.

15. The Right to Join and Belong to an Organization.

16. The Right to Own Property.

17. The Right to Start his Own Business.

18. The Right to Manage his Own Affairs.

19. The Right to Make a Profit or to Fail, depending on his Own Ability.

There are other, similar rights of individual action which are Principles of America, but all of these individual rights may be combined in these two broad principles . . .

20. Every Man is entitled to Freedom and Equality of Opportunity.

21. Every Man may Earn his Living When, Where, and How he wants to.

There are also Limiting Principles . . .

Principles of individual freedom sometimes clash with those of individual equality. Therefore our rights as individuals must be limited, and those limitations are themselves principles.

22. The Rights of any Individual shall not Interfere with the Equal Rights of Other Individuals.

Your right to swing your arms stops where the other fellow's nose starts.

23. The Rights of any Individual shall not Interfere with the Welfare of the People as a Whole.

Freedom of speech does not give the individual the right to shout "fire" in a crowded theatre.

24. Every Individual owes Obedience to the Laws under which he Lives.

The individual has the right to talk against a law, to work and vote to change that law, but NOT to disobey that law.

Principles that are Patterns of Behavior . . .

Many of our principles of individual freedom and equality are guaranteed to us by law.

But we have other beliefs, other general rules of action and conduct that have grown to the status of principles. They have stood the test of time. They have worked. They have become a basic part of the way we live and of the way we look at things.

These principles, too, are foundations of Americanism. They are as true, if not more true, today than they were in 1850 or in 1750.

If America stays free, they will still hold true in 2050.

25. Every Man shall be Judged by his Own Record.

A man's family background, his race or his religion, is not as important as what that man himself can do, for Americans believe a man must stand on his own feet.

26. Every Man is Free to Achieve as much as he can.

We believe that where any boy may become President, where any man may achieve greatness, there is the greatest incentive for every man to do his best.

27. To Achieve anything, a Man should be Willing to Work.

Americans have always known that "you don't get something for nothing," that to get anything takes a willingness to work and to work hard.

28. Achievement also Depends upon the Ability to do a Good Job.

Add to "willingness to work" the ability to produce results and the combination is the basis for most individual achievement in our country.

29. Every Man has the Right to a Fair Share of the Results of his Work and his Ability.

Because of this belief, America has not only produced more goods, but they have been more fairly and more widely shared by more people than in any other country.

30. Security is the Ability of a Man to Provide for himself.

The only true security for any individual is the opportunity, the ability, and the determination to work and plan and save for his own present and future. Self-reliance is vital to individual independence and personal freedom. No man can be "proud and free" who depends on others for his security.

31. When an Individual cannot Provide his own Security, the Responsibility should be Assumed by Others.

We believe that no one should starve, or be without adequate clothing and shelter, so those who have more than their basic needs share the responsibility of providing the essentials of security for those who need help.

32. Every Individual must Deal Fairly with other Individuals.

Honesty, fairness, and personal integrity are virtues that help free and independent individuals get along with each other without losing their independence.

33. Fair and Free Competition is a Good Thing.

Americans have always believed that competition among individuals or groups encourages greater effort which in turn brings greater benefits to all.

34. Cooperation among Individuals is Vitaly Important.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER has said: "The freedom to compete vigorously accompanied by a readiness to cooperate wholeheartedly for the performance of community and national functions, together make our system the most productive on earth."

Principles of Individual Responsibility . . .

Freedom for individuals carries with it an equal responsibility to use that freedom wisely. Therefore, if we wish to remain free, we must faithfully fulfill our responsibilities as free men.

35. The Individual is Responsible for himself and his Family.

He must protect them and provide for their present and future well-being.

36. The Individual has Responsibilities to the Groups of which he is a Part.

He must give of his best to his community, his church, his employer, his union, and to every group in which individuals cooperate for their mutual benefit.

37. The Individual has Responsibilities to his Country.

He must be an active citizen, interesting himself in local, state, and national government, voting wisely, thinking and speaking and acting to preserve and strengthen freedom, equality and opportunity for every individual.

38. The Individual has Responsibilities to the World.

Man's horizons have expanded. What happens in the world affects him, and his actions can affect the world. Today, therefore, each man has a responsibility to act—and to encourage his country to act—so that freedom and cooperation will be encouraged among the people and the nations of the world.

For America's Future

Most of us are still confident of ourselves and of our country. We do not claim perfection. But we have faith in our ability to move forward, to improve, to grow, to provide more and more individuals with more and more of everything they want and need in life . . .

If we, the people of the United States, want to have more material benefits, we must believe in and follow these two principles:

39. The only way we can Have More is to Produce More; and

40. As we Produce More, we must make it possible for More and More People to Enjoy that which we Produce.

If we, the people of the United States, want to have a better life, spiritually as well as materially . . .

41. We must stand firmly for our Beliefs, our Rights, our Principles.

WALT WHITMAN, writing nearly 100 years ago, put it this way:

"There is no week, nor day, nor hour when tyranny may not enter upon this country if the people lose their supreme confidence in themselves . . ."

There are those who would chip away our confidence so that their special brand of tyranny might creep into America. They must not succeed. So, let us ask of every plan, or act, or idea . . .

Is it With or Against the Principles of America?

Senator Byrd Declares He Will Oppose Boost In Federal Debt Limit

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) jolted administration hopes of obtaining a financial breather today by announcing he will oppose any increase in the 275 billion dollar federal debt limit.

Truck Driver Hurt At Rts. 14 and 164

State Highway Patrolmen investigated only four auto mishaps Saturday and Sunday despite heavy July 4th holiday traffic which crowded highways. One truck driver received minor injuries.

Glenn E. Ehrsan, 32, of Monroe, Ind., suffered abrasions of his right knee when his truck and a truck driven by Wilbur H. Martin, 38, of RD 2, Columbiana, collided at the Routes 14 and 164 intersection, near Columbiana, at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Ehrsan's vehicle, northbound on Route 164, was struck by the truck operated by Martin when its brakes failed, patrolmen said. Martin was cited for driving with defective brakes.

The trucks after colliding, knocked down a power pole at the intersection causing a power failure in the area for a short while, patrolmen said.

A 16-year-old East Palestine motorist was cited into Juvenile Court after his car rammed into the rear of an auto driven by William E. Steffy, 29, of Greensburg, Pa., on Route 14, east of Columbiana, at 1:35 a.m. Sunday.

Patrolmen said Steffy was traveling east on Route 14 and had stopped to make a left turn into the Casanova Nite Club when the East Palestine youth, James McCready, ran into him.

Only slight damage was done to the two cars, patrolmen said.

An estimated $150 damage was done to a truck driven by Charles Musta, 24, of Corapolis, Pa. when it ran off the Depot Rd. near Guilford Lake, at 9 p.m. Saturday.

Unhurt, Musta told patrolmen he was run off the road into the ditch by an unidentified truck.

Defective steering gear caused a truck driven by James Elliott, 48, of East Liverpool to leave Route 267, a mile north of East Liverpool, at 4:55 p.m. Saturday and strike a pole.

ate Finance Committee, said in an interview that Senate passage of the administration's tax bill in his opinion makes it unnecessary to raise the legal limit on government borrowing.

"The revenue loss from this bill is not as much as had been anticipated," the Virginia senator said. "I don't think it is necessary to raise the limit now, particularly since the Treasury has about six billion dollars on hand and can borrow another five billion under the present limit."

"The Treasury said last year when it didn't get the increase that it would be in all kinds of financial difficulties. But they cut back expenditures by two billion dollars and the country hasn't gone to pot."

Administration officials have made it clear they will ask the Finance Committee to act on a bill approved by the House last year to lift the limit to 290 billion dollars. They have indicated they will be willing to compromise on a lesser increase.

Chairman Ferguson (Mich.) of the Senate Republican Policy Committee said he expects a formal administration request for action soon. He said attempts will be made to bring the issue to a vote in the Senate before Congress adjourns, around the end of July.

But Republican leaders were not at all certain of holding their ranks intact in a controversy involving the political issue of further deficit spending.

Williams Not Convinced

Sen. Williams (R-Del.), a Finance Committee member and one of the Senate conferees on the tax bill, said he has yet to be convinced the debt limit ought to be raised. Although the Senate version of the bill would mean only about 10 million dollars in revenue loss in the next year, in subsequent years the loss might exceed one billion dollars annually.

Sen. George (D-Ga.), another key member of the Finance Committee, said he wants to see what sort of agreement can be reached on compromising Senate-House differences in the tax measure before he decides finally how he will vote on a debt limit increase.

There are indications that Treasury officials would be willing to settle for some sort of compromise under which some government debts could be taken out from under the statutory limitation but Byrd said he wants none of that and would rather vote for a straight increase.

There also was a possibility that a boost of from 5 to 8 billion dollars in the ceiling would be proposed within the Senate committee, rather than the 15 billion increase which the House has approved.

Unless the Senate acts this year, the administration would have to start all over again in the next Congress to get approval by both Houses for any increase.

California Mishap Claims Area Woman

Mrs. Donald Rea, daughter of Mrs. Minnie Kuhns of Greenford and the late Harry Kuhns, was killed instantly Thursday at 1:30 p.m. when the car driven by her mother-in-law, Mrs. Ora Rea, was hit by a semi-truck near San Luis Obispo, Calif.

The former Greenford woman, Ruth Kuhns Jacobs Rea, 41, went to California about seven years ago for her health and she and her husband, Donald, and daughter, Shoran, and a step-daughter and elder Mrs. Rea, who is in critical condition with a concussion and other injuries, resides at Hanford.

Sharon Rea, 6, received a fractured shoulder, but the injuries of two cousins riding with her in the back seat were not serious.

Survivors here besides Mrs. Rea's mother are four brothers, Audley and Donald Kuhns of Greenford, Arthur Kuhns of Cortland and two sisters, Mrs. Edna Crump of North Lima and Mrs. Betty Cook of Greenford. The body of Mrs. Rea was taken to Hanford an obituary will take place in the family plot there.

With our country facing powerful enemies abroad and subtle foes of our free form of government within, the famous warning above holds even more significance now than when John Philipot Curran gave it in 1808.

Wage Dispute Threatens to Kill Pay Hikes For Federal Employees

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—A deadlocked wage dispute between Uncle Sam and half a million postal workers threatened today to prospective pay increases this year for 1½ million federal employees.

Caught in the pay squeeze is an administration-backed bill to raise postal rates 245 million dollars a year, including a penny increase in the cost of mailing letters.

Both postal pay and rate bills are being held up in the House as the result of administration objections to any pay increases without first overhauling the hoary post office job and salary setup.

Organized postal groups have tried to override the House leadership and force a pay bill to the floor, but they appear to lack the necessary backing, and Congress may adjourn before any action is taken on this or related increases for a million other federal, classified workers outside the postal system.

And until the pay issue is settled and the probable size of the post office deficit can be more clearly determined, administration leaders are also holding up action on a bill to raise rates on most classes of mail.

Organized postal employees asked for across-the-board raises of $800 a year and a like request has been made by other classified government workers which, if granted, would add an estimated total of 2½ million dollars a year to the cost of federal employment.

The House Post Office Committee, overriding Chairman Rees (R-Kan.), last month approved a bill by Rep. Corbett (R-Pa.) for a 7 per cent across-the-board increase in postal pay with a $240-a-year minimum and $480 maximum. The total increase would be about 200 million dollars a year.

The committee bill omitted the

'Fission Fleet' Sailors Preparing To Operate First Atomic Submarine

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—This country's first fission fleet sailors are polishing off—by land and by sea—the training they need to operate the world's first atomic submarine.

They've been dry land sailors almost three years, but the time is approaching when they will take the USS Nautilus on the first critical trials of a long series of tests.

During much of the last three years, the men have lived and worked on an arid plain in Idaho, while they helped to build and learned to operate the original, land-based prototype of the nuclear power plant that will drive the Nautilus.

Taking Refresher Course

So with their skipper, Cmdr. Eugene P. Wilkinson of Long Beach, Calif., they are taking a refresher course in seamanship as well as practicing up for operating a vessel unlike anything that has sailed before.

At the Navy's New London, Conn., submarine base the crew trains daily either in boats operating out of the base or in an amazing piece of machinery called the Askania Device. The Askania Device is to the submarine service what the Link Trainer is to airmen. While firmly grounded, it contains all the controls and simulates all the conditions of a submarine operating at sea.

Seek Trouble Spots

Using compressed air supplied from dockside high-pressure lines, the men are trying out every tank, pipe, conduit and compartment in the huge hull. Soap, applied to all fittings and seams, shows the tiniest bubble of air that could cause trouble later.

The vessel's controls and indicator system—including the "Christmas tree" board of red and green lights to show whether innumerable valves are closed or open—will be checked out thoroughly.

Then the Nautilus will be ready for the big day, probably sometime later this summer or early fall when she heads down the Thames River for Long Island Sound where the initial trials will be run.

Long Island Sound is only about 150 feet deep in the area used for shallow water tests.

When and if the Nautilus proves out to the satisfaction of all her technical and operating hands she will put out to the open sea for the deep dive trials. Only then will the Navy know definitely whether she will fulfill the specifications for a submarine that can travel deeper, farther and faster under water than any submersible ever built.

State Highway Patrolmen of the Canfield barracks today said no new leads had developed in the robbery of the Boardman Plaza A & P store Saturday in which two bandits escaped with receipts estimated at several thousand dollars.

R. E. Small, manager of the store, said the two men approached him about 8:55 p.m. as he was making a deposit of the Saturday receipts at a night depository in the Mahoning National Bank branch in the plaza.

One of the men shoved a small automatic pistol into Small's side and ordered him to drop the bag. When he did, the other bandit grabbed the bag and the two ran to the rear of the building and jumped into a maroon coupe.

Small, who with several passers-by, pursued the men to the rear of the plaza, said they drove west turning into the Boardman-Canfield Rd. He said he obtained the license number of the car.

The holdup occurred while it was still light enough to see the men clearly. Small said they wore no masks and were in their early thirties.

Final Truce Plans Left To Geneva Parley

French Union Forces Withdraw From Key Communication Point

HANOI, Indochina, July 4 (AP)—French Union and Vietminh officers held their first meeting today at Trung Gia, Indochina's Panmunjom, to consider details of a possible cease fire in the nearly eight-year-old Indochinese War.

Trung Gia is in the center of a neutral zone about 4½ miles in diameter carved out of Vietminh-held territory 25 miles north of Hanoi.

The chief rebel representative said he considered the meeting a "step forward" toward peace, while the French spokesman was careful to emphasize that any final decision on a truce is up to the Geneva conference.

Meeting War Postponed

The meeting was postponed from last Monday because of uneasiness on the part of France's Vietnamese allies over what concessions might be made to the Communist-led Vietminh. It came after the French disclosed they were pulling out of the southern sector of the Red River Delta to strengthen defenses farther north—a move which was denounced by Viet Nam political leaders.

French Union forces under heavy rebel attack withdrew yesterday from Phu Ly, key communications center 35 miles south of Hanoi.

The conferees held a public session this morning, then reconvened later in closed session at French insistence to work out an agenda. The Vietminh had been ready to call it a day after the open meeting.

Marks Step Forward

"Discussions on the spot always have a greater chance of being concrete and realistic," Gen. Van Tien Dung, head of the Vietminh delegation, said. "We can say that the present meeting marks a step forward on the way toward the settlement of the Indochinese War by negotiation."

"The delegation of the high command of the Viet Nam People's

Legislators Disagree On U.S. Action If Red China Enters UN

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) and Rep. Short (R-Mo.) said today they don't agree with Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) that the United States should quit the United Nations if it admits Red China to membership.

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said he would "seriously consider" the idea.

The three gave their views on TV-radio shows in answer to questions about Knowland's statement last week that if Communist China is seated in the U.N. he would resign as Republican Senate leader and devote his efforts to getting this country out of the organization.

Fulbright and Hickenlooper, members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, appeared on NBC's "American Forum of the Air." Short, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, was interviewed on NBC's "Youth Wants to Know."

Short said that to admit Red

China to the U.N. would be "appeasement" and would further weaken the U.S. position and that of all the free world. And while he is "fed up" by Russia's veto of vital issues, Short said, "I want us to continue, certainly for the time, as a member of the United Nations to support it."

What he would like this country to do, Short declared, is "sever all diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia and refuse to trade with any of the Communist countries."

Most of this country's troubles stem from U.S. recognition of the Soviet Communist regime he said, which "under the cloak of diplomacy, gained access to many of our secrets and much of the materials we have given to them."

Fulbright said the U.N., "as inadequate as it is, is the only alternative we have, now, for the long-term future, to the old policy of war at nearly every occasion there is a disagreement."

Hickenlooper said the United States should use its veto to keep Red China out of the U.N. because "there is a tremendous international moral problem involved if Red China is permitted to shoot itself" into the organization.

Fulbright and Hickenlooper took somewhat different views toward British Prime Minister Churchill's recent plea for a try at "peaceful coexistence" with the Russians.

It is possible, Fulbright said, adding: "The only alternative is war." He said "we have co-existed in this same world with them ever since there has been a Communist group."

Hickenlooper said coexistence would be possible only if a line could be drawn as to just how far the policy would be followed. This, he said, would require "complete, vigorous and sincere cooperation with the other nations and especially the other so-called powers," and "we have been unable to get that thus far."

"There is no such thing as a long range, coexistence with a philosophy whose ultimate purpose is to enslave this country and other countries," Hickenlooper declared.

Asked if this country could "go it alone," he answered "yes," but said "it would be disastrous and devastating" and "probably would destroy our economy as we know it."

Fulbright blamed "recent cleavages" between this country and Britain and France largely on "the influence or effect of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) in Europe." He said it has caused "a questioning of our capacity to lead and a capacity to manage our own affairs."

The Arkansas senator also sharply criticized Vice President Nixon for saying last week that former Secretary of State Dean Acheson's policy was responsible for the crisis in Asia.

Plan Fund Drive For Overseas Food Relief

LISBON — Plans for a September fund raising campaign aimed at shipping surplus food to foreign countries were mapped at a meeting of the Christian Rural Overseas Program Committee Friday at Village Hall.

Rev. Alva Knoll, officer of the Ohio Council of Churches, the sponsoring organization, said each dollar raised will furnish $20 worth of food to hungry people. Shipments will include dried milk and wheat products.

Committees in charge of campaigns in 12 of the townships were named.

Charles Cunningham of Winona, who presided at the meeting, said the food probably will be sent overseas in October.

Says Congress Takes Foreign Policy Lead

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—Rep. McCormack (D-Mass.) said today Congress is taking the initiative on foreign policy away from President Eisenhower.

He said Congress, by taking the lead on three major foreign policy issues in a week, had showed a "lack of confidence" in administration leadership.

McCormack, deputy House Democratic leader, named two of the congressional actions as a resolution warning Communists out of the Western Hemisphere, and a proposal in the foreign aid bill to cut off aid to any nation joining a nonaggression pact with Asian Communists.

In each case, he said, Congress has taken over functions which rightly belong to the executive branch.

The latest move in this trend, he said in an interview, is the declaration by Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) that he would resign as Senate Republican leader and fight for congressional action to take the United States out of the U.N. if the Chinese Communists are seated in that international organization.

"Knowland is very fearful that Red China will be admitted and that the United States will not oppose it vigorously," McCormack said.

"He is taking desperate but courageous measures to try to stop it."

Both President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles have expressed strong opposition to the seating of Red China, and Vice President Nixon repeated that opposition in a speech last night.

McCormack said the Constitution entrusts foreign policy to the executive branch and Congress has no business dictating policy, even if it were always right.

But, he said, Congress has taken a hand in these questions because no public policy on them has been announced by the President or the State Department.

Doctors Say Truman No Longer In Danger

KANSAS CITY, July 4 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman, recovering from a major operation, was pronounced out of danger today by his physicians.

A research hospital spokesman said in view of Truman's greatly improved condition, the twice-daily bulletins issued by the hospital would be discontinued.

He underwent surgery June 20 for removal of his gall bladder and appendix. At first his recovery ran a normal course, then hit a temporary snag when enteritis (intestinal inflammation) set in. For several days his condition was listed as serious.

Great Thoughts

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the leading causes of flat feet in America at the turn of the century was Independence Day oratory.

People at the picnic lunch in the public park could feel their arches falling as they stood in throngs around the bandstand, listening to a pompous politician praise the founding fathers in hours-long speeches pockmarked with platitudes.

Today Americans don't celebrate the Fourth of July so much with oratory, firecrackers and professional flag waving. Our families just relax and enjoy the liberty to do as we please—a right our ancestors won through bloodshed, a right each generation since usually has had to preserve through bloodshed.

But great days deserve great thoughts. Here is what some famous minds of the past and present have thought on the tremendous theme of liberty, independence, freedom:

"Whoso would be man, must be a nonconformist"—Emerson.

"Independence, like honor, is a rocky island without a beach"—Napoleon.

"The world has never had a good definition of the word liberty"—Abraham Lincoln.

"Liberty means responsibility. That is why most men dread it"—Bernard Shaw.

"Follow your own bent no matter what people say"—Karl Marx.

"The strongest man in the world is he who stands most alone"—Henrik Ibsen.

"Paddle your own canoe"—Frederick Marriott.

"I would rather sit on a pumpkin and have it all to myself than be crowded on a velvet cushion"—H. D. Thoreau.

"So live that you can look any man in the eye and tell him to go to hell"—Unknown author, quoted by John D. Rockefeller Jr.

"Declarations of independence make nobody really independent"—George Santayana.

"Jefferson's Declaration of Independence is a practical document for the use of practical men. It is not a thesis for philosophers, but a whip for tyrants; it is not a theory of government, but a program of action"—Woodrow Wilson.

"Liberty is given by nature even to mute animals"—Tacitus.

"Among a people generally corrupt, liberty cannot long exist"—Edmund Burke.

"Liberty is always dangerous, but it is the safest thing we have"—Harry Emerson Fosdick.

"Man's liberty ends, and it ought to end, when that liberty becomes the curse of his neighbors"—Frederic William Farrar.

"The love of liberty is the love of others; the love of power is the love of ourselves"—William Hazlitt.

"He that would make his own liberty secure must guard even his enemy from oppression"—Thomas Paine.

"I would rather belong to a poor nation that was free than to a rich nation that had ceased to be in love with liberty. We shall not be poor if we love liberty"—Woodrow Wilson.

"We are not to expect to be translated from despotism to liberty in a feather bed"—Thomas Jefferson.

"They that can give up essential liberty to obtain a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety"—Benjamin Franklin.

"Independence forever!"—exclamation by John Adams the morning of his death, July 4, 1826, when roused by holiday cannon fire. (Thomas Jefferson died the same day.)

"The United States is the only country with a known birthday"—James G. Blaine.

WORLD'S LONGEST — Map shows course of the world's largest petroleum pipeline, construction of which is expected to start within a month or so, according to the American Pipeline Corp., of New York. The $170,000,000 line will run from the Houston-Beaumont, Tex., area to Newark, N. J. At first it will move 250,000 barrels of petroleum products a day—half of its capacity. Main line will be 1425 miles of 24 and 26-inch pipe, plus 485 miles of smaller pipe in feeder lines.

It's Your Independence

American independence is not a condition that was brought about by something that happened in the last quarter of the 18th century and thereafter could be taken for granted.

It is not something that was gained by our remote ancestors in the days when America is young and passed along like an heirloom as America grew older.

It is not something to be spoken of in the past tense or to be thought about as an event in history.

It is alive and present — something each American possesses now. It is personal, immediate, dynamic and in a literal sense it is still mankind's best hope for an ultimate triumph over the despotism that still dominates most of the world.

Independence is a state of mind secured by a state of law and, beyond that, by a state of public opinion which makes the state of law meaningful and enforceable.

Scarcely a week passes in this republic that does not bring some important test to determine whether or not large numbers of Americans still deserve to be free of oppression and are still willing to pay the price of freedom.

The test is survived with credit only when most of those who endure it emerge with their own and their neighbors' independence intact.
Anything that detracts from the sum total of human ability to attain the pinnacle of dignity represented by the Christian ideals on which the Founding Fathers founded their republic is a blow to freedom.

Men who refuse to think for themselves or are unable to think for themselves do not deserve to be free and do not know what to do with freedom when they have it. They cannot attain independence in their own minds, the only place where independence is secure.

It is not a static structure of rules and precedents but an ever-changing and ever-growing concept of the more than 160 million individual minds which now comprise the United States.

In The Ohio Scene

The Ohio Supreme Court's unanimous decision that the Ohio Turnpike Commission has no authority in existing law to ban roadside advertising outside its right of way throws this policy question to the Ohio General Assembly.

Before it can be decided there, some constitutional questions as well as questions about advertising practice will have to be given an airing.

We can be as burned up about too many billboards as a roadside sign as anybody else.
We wonder sometimes who is responsible for letting advertisers incur ill will at their own expense by overdoing a practice that must be carried on with restraint if it is going to produce good results. We wonder the same thing about some of the advertising practices on radio and television.

But advertising of all kinds is part of the American way of living. The outdoor sign and the billboard are in the American scene. While it may be thoroughly desirable for toll roads to be free of this sort of thing, we think there has to be a limit to the jurisdiction of the authorities which build them and operate them.
That limit would seem to be the limit of the toll-road right-of-way.

If a farmer's wife wants Ohio Turnpike travelers to know she has fresh eggs to sell and has enough gumption to put up a sign on her own property, we don't want anyone threatening to have the law on her. We feel pretty certain the members of the General Assembly will feel that way, too.

Their Brothers' Keeper

Bit by bit, the citizens of this republic are working out the details of a policy of shared responsibility for one another's welfare.

A stockholder in U.S. Steel Corp. has been keeping track of the waistline of the corporation's board chairman, Benjamin F. Fairless — and Mr. Fairless has conceded the stockholder responsibility for one another's welfare.

The president of the Philadelphia Phillies, Robert Carpenter, has been paying a private detective to check on the post-game habits of his ballplayers. The practice came to light when one of the players reported he was being followed and police arrested the private detective, who unfortunately was carrying a concealed weapon at the time.

This suggests a new pattern of looking out for one another — a sort of two-way paternalism.

It may lead in due course to a decision by the Phillies to hire a bodyguard to look out for Mr. Carpenter, their owner. "We are in a very costly business and I have to be sure my players are in shape for a major league season," he says.

His players would like to be similarly sure their millionaire owner was staying in shape
during the season and between seasons as well.
There is, after all, only one millionaire ball-club owner named Carpenter and there are dozens of ballplayers.

Korean Situation

U.S. Troops May Be There For Long Time

No one of authority around here in the greater concern over the possibility of the Korean war starting up again, despite the breakup of peace negotiations at Geneva.

In the greater concern over the situation in Indo-China, the now cold war in Korea is all but forgotten.

Officials in some of the Far Eastern embassies in Washington see no advantage to the Russians or the Chinese Communists in restarting the Korean war. There are easier pickings elsewhere.

Reports from inside Red China, through Hong Kong, indicate that there are serious food shortages even in Shanghai, usually the best-off of all Chinese cities. That being the case, the rice bowl of Indo-China, particularly the rich Red River delta around Hanoi, which seems all but in their grasp, is of far more value to the Communists than South Korea.

What happens next in Korea is,
however, of tremendous importance to the United States, as well as to the Republic of Korea.

JUST BEFORE the Geneva conference broke up, China's Premier Chou En-lai proposed that the countries represented at Geneva be made a self-perpetuating authority, outside the United Nations, to deal with the Korea situation.

While the United States recognizes that any Korean peace must eventually be made with Communist China as an active belligerent, this country was not willing to perpetuate the futile Geneva conference. A new start will have to be made. It may possibly come through the fall meeting of the United Nations General Assembly.

In the meantime, the U.S. now has nearly 250,000 troops tied down on a four-hour alert basis along the 155-mile Korean cease fire line. There is no intention of withdrawing until there are absolute guarantees that peace in this area can be stabilized.

There is abundant high American military opinion that it would be utter folly for the United States to put ground troops on the China mainland. This opinion is based on the knowledge that the United States has only one real enemy in this world. To dissipate American military strength is considered foolish.

If at any time the United States should get sucked into a war with Red China, or Soviet Russia, the foothold on South Korea would be invaluable. Also, it is essential to the defense of Japan.

FEARS THAT President Sygnaman Rhee will restart the war are not taken seriously. The old Korean father of his country talks tough. For propaganda purposes, it is good that he does. He knows full well, however, that his military strength is entirely dependent on American support.

He has 655,000 troops in six army corps and 20 divisions. To maintain an army of this size indefinitely, Korea must have 10-year compulsory military service, and troops must be American-trained and equipped.

Korea's infant air force is entirely dependent on the Fifth U.S.
Air Force, and American heavy artillery and specialists are needed to support her ground troops.

About two-thirds of the South Korean officer corps have had less than three years' service—less than that of an American first Korean four-star general. 33 years old, in command of army corps of three divisions.

The trick is that every South Korean division has an American deputy commanding general and 16 other deputy commanders down to regimental headquarters levels.

AGAINST South Korean forces
there are some 350,000 North Koreans thinned out in the front lines, with 650,000 Red Chinese behind them. They are dug in deep, but there is no evidence of any big build-up at the front.

A number of airfields have been built in North Korea. Whether the whole country is exposed to these fields in violation of cease-fire terms is not considered too important. Planes could be flown in quickly if the armistice were breached.

It is recognized that President Rhee could break this peace with one shot, but the ROK ability to liberate the whole country is extremely doubtful.

So the American troops in Gen.
Maxwell Taylor's Eighth Army must sit quietly by and wait.
They may be there a long time.

Global Suicide

When the first atom bombs were dropped near the close of World War II, mankind was stunned. But amid the shock and clamor, a few voices were heard pointing out that this was not, in the technical sense, really a new weapon. It was just a big bomb, albeit a staggering one.

Guided missiles, said these voices, were something else. Rocket or jet propelled missiles hurtling at supersonic speeds between continents were a genuinely new invention. They promised, in theory at least, a striking arm no conceivable piloted air force could match.

Neither we nor the Soviet Union have been idle on either the A and H bomb fronts or in the guided missile field.

Yet, horrifying as the prospect is that these developments offer, the real possibility of intercontinental warfare featuring guided missiles with atomic or hydrogen warheads is even worse.

Whether or not it is true, as contended, that the Russians have made substantial progress in guided missiles, we can all understand the intense necessity for keeping up in this field ourselves. There

Languages

One of the criticisms leveled against Americans who live abroad or travel extensively is that they make too little effort to learn the languages of other nations.

There seems to be something to
it. Americans evidently try to drag America with them wherever they go, creating a little enclave founded on their own language and customs.

Europeans, whatever their limitations in understanding America, more often than not know the English language and one or two others besides their own.

Now, however, the imaginative Encyclopedia Britannica has come up with a new kind of dictionary that may make it easier for Americans abroad to get acquainted with life beyond their own circle.

The dictionary—Useful for about 80 per cent of the Western world —carries all words in seven different languages. They are arrayed in parallel columns, so a man who has found his word can tell in a flash what the counterpart is in French, German, Italian, Spanish, Swedish and Yiddish.

A mere mechanical prop like a dictionary can't do the whole job.
But it certainly is a sound contribution to better international understanding.

Thoughts For Today

And the king said unto him, Why speakest thou any more of thy matters? I have said, Thou and Ziba divide the land. — II Samuel 19:29.

Decision is a vastly important thing with a convicted sinner. He must choose, or he must be lost.
If he will not do it, he may expect the Divine Spirit to depart from him, and leave him to his own way. — Ichabod Spencer.

Also a Good Day to Remember Our Blessings

A Memorable Date

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

I have listened for days to the warnings over the radio that this year there will be a record number of accidents on the road on the Fourth of July weekend.

The public is warned to be careful. The life that is lost may be your own.
What has the Fourth of July become? Is it a lost weekend? Is it a day for chasing from nowhere to nowhere? Is it a pagan summer festival?

Listen my children and you shall hear of a wondrous story of a brave people, the first colonials to declare their independence from their mother country and to tell the world why. That is why the Fourth of July is celebrated.

It was celebrated before anyone ever thought of an automobile; it was celebrated before there was a good road in this country, before there were any state-designated picnic areas to litter with paper and cartons and all the debris of a good time, including broken bottles.

IT WAS celebrated as a holy birthday, as the day on which a new nation was conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

It was on a hot day in July, in the city of Philadelphia, dedicated to peace, that a small group of brave men met to issue a proclamation, written principally by Thomas Jefferson of Virginia, philosopher, engineer, statesman, one day to become president of the United States.

It was a most unusual document, for whereas when revolutions are announced, the revolutionists denounce those in power and promise the masses land, food, wealth — whatever it is that men crave—Jefferson set forth a philosophy of politics and of life as the reason for revolution.

I write this in the town of Sandusky, Ohio.

By Galbraith

isfield in Massachusetts on a farm that borders on the trail that "Gentleman" Johnny Burgoyne took when he fought Indians. It is on the road where General Henry Knox cut through the forest to bring the artillery from Ticonderoga to Cambridge. It is a few miles from King Philip's encampment where he laid siege to the settlers in Hartford and Springfield. It is a few miles from where Shay's Rebellion took place on the eve of Washington's administration.

IT IS A GOOD place to sit and think about the Fourth of July, of the birth of a nation and of the wondrous preamble which every child of my generation was required to memorize until it remained in the mind like something living that moved and demanded notice. "When in the course of human events..."

Yes, children, you are told that to memorize is unnecessary, that you need only to know about things and to understand them. But in 1917, I was in Petrograd on that October day when early in the morning the sailors came up the Neva, firing their guns and proclaiming a new day. They would give the peasants and workers land, peace and bread.

"When in the course of human events..." shouted at me in Jefferson's words:
"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal."

There were no mob. There was no crowd. There were no great cheering claquees. There was a small committee of five men, Thomas Jefferson, John Adams,
Benjamin Franklin, Roger Sherman and R. R. Livingston who were appointed to draft a declaration of independence for the 13 Colonies who wished to be free.

This the delegates adopted on July 4 and to it all the distinguished signatures pledged with "firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence," their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor.

These words we should on July Fourth each year repeat as a prayer to God that we should never be tempted to forget our beloved country and what we owe to it.

Older People

A remarkable document has been sent me recently by Mr. Thomas Desmond, a senator in New York State. It is the report of the New York State Joint Legislative Committee on Problems of the Aging, which consists of a number of chapters or sections contributed both by medical and nonmedical specialists on various problems faced by people in their later years.

Everyone knows that more and more people are living longer, but it is particularly encouraging to find a state legislature not only aware of what this increasing proportion of elderly people means, but being actively interested in what can be done to make old age more satisfactory all the way around.

Price Proppers

The Senate Agriculture Committee surprised its chairman, the venerable Sen. George Aiken of Vermont, by voting 8 to 7 to continue high, rigid farm price supports for another year. So now the burden of supporting President Eisenhower's plan for lower, more flexible supports must be borne by senators on the floor.

Aiken seems to be confident the program may still win out, but he also was reasonably sure his committee would back the President.

The House Agriculture Committee earlier voted by a wider margin to scuttle Mr. Eisenhower's plan, and it is considered extremely doubtful that the full House will stand with him. It was the Senate that was counted on to drive along the flexible program, and the committee's action has now put this in question.

Possibly members of both houses are "making a record" for the farm vote, expecting presidential veto to accomplish Mr. Eisenhower's air but get them off the hook. If this is their thought, one might say it is practical, but hardly likely to stir admiration as evidence of either courage or statesmanship.

their Creator with certain unalien-

Happiness. That to secure these of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness..."

There are many aspects involved in facing the declining years. Some of them, of course, are strictly medical and involve greater and greater efforts towards keeping elderly people in the best possible health and lessening the burdens of their ailments or diseases.

Many of the problems of the later years, however, involve questions of occupation, hobbies, housing, and the like, which are not strictly medical in nature, but in which the physician can cooperate.

Not all aspects of retirement and the latter years are covered in this report but it does discuss such things as chronic disease, rehabilitation, retirement age, and employment.

The conclusion that older people are better off if they can keep busy either in gainful employment or with hobbies is thoroughly sound.

Of course, what they do must take into consideration their physical abilities, but it is astonishing how much can be done by an older person, even one who has what seems like severe physical limitations.

Old age is for most of us not something to dread, but planning for it, both on an individual and community basis, is important and will become increasingly so as more of us reach the declining years.

So They Say

European powers cannot save Asia from Eurasian communism.
It is the peoples of Asia who basically must save themselves from that threat—internally or externally.

—Sen. Alexander Wiley (R. Wis.).
The temptation of adding a national audience dragged them (Army - McCarthy hearings) out week after week. It was a race that went only to the hams, and the efforts of some to outdo others were sad commentaries upon human vanity and the frailty of the flesh.

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Lawyers and The Clam-up

This we really want to see... a client being told by his lawyer that to give the newspapers and public information which might be of help to him can't be done because it is UNETHICAL!
Yet it would seem possible under a code approved by the New York State Bar Association with a suggestion that the American Bar Association follow suit. The new rule comes out for suspending or disbaring a lawyer who freely discusses with newspapermen in the old-fashioned manner the full circumstances of the case.

Can you imagine the situation when a man, arrested in perhaps some sensational case, cites some important facts to his mouthpiece:

Client — I'm giving you some vital information that will be a big help to me.

Lawyer — Shush! Not so loud! Somebody might hear you.

Client — Whaddaya mean somebody might hear? My arrest has been played up big in the newspapers and I've been put in a bad light. I want my side in the news.

Lawyer — I'm afraid it might influence the judge and prevent a fair trial.

Client — One of us must be nuts I want a fair trial, of course, but first of all I want to get set right with my relatives and friends.

Lawyer — Sorry, but I can't be a party to any complete presentation of your story in the public press. It's UNETHICAL, my boy, UN-ETHICAL!

Client — What happens to you for being unethical?

Lawyer — I can get disbarred or suspended for any press statement.

Client — Disbarred! Suspended! Listen, mister, I can get 20 years in the hoosegow for the lack of a press statement. Something's screwed here.

Lawyer — The Bar Association has spoken.
There mustn't be a word of publicity.

Client — Do you realize what that can do to my future?

Lawyer — Brother, do you realize what it can do to MINE!

We can't get too excited about the Bar Association code. Lawyers from the beginning of time have been better than fair hands as publicity seekers. The importance of getting their names on the front pages has never been minimized by them.

To get anywhere in his profession, as in most others, an attorney has to make a name for himself. And it is not made by putting a "DO NOT DISTURB" sign on the office door when the press is knocking, or by issuing statements by smoke signal and hiding a light under a bushel "Gangway, buster!" is the slogan of many a mouthpiece facing opposition when he is told the newspaperman are waiting. Name 25 famous attorneys and we will name at least 20 who got there by playing ball with the public and the press, and by realizing that a lawyer's picture on the first page is pretty wonderful.

How many judges do you know (and we mean even on the top courts) who have always said,
"Beat it! I don't want my client or myself in the newspapers." Plenty of them are there because they knew the value of publicity and never doubted that the public had a right to get into the act.

Suspend and disbar the counsellors who play ball with the press of America?

COPYRIGHT 1950.
SIGURD S. LARSON

You live in the United States of America. You are an American.

Real Americans like their country. They are proud of it. They think it is a good place to live. And they want to keep it good—to keep it getting better and better all the time.

Why is America the way it is? What makes it a good place to live? The answer is simply this:

Throughout our history most Americans have believed that every person has certain rights and duties and responsibilities.

Americans have believed that there are certain things that people should do, and other things they should not do.

They have also believed in certain things that people are, and are not.

These things that people believe are called principles. This book is an attempt to state the Principles of America in simple, primer fashion so that you can understand them, learn them, and remember them.

This is important. It was because earlier Americans believed in these principles and guided their lives by them, that America has grown to be the good place it is.

If all of us learn and remember these principles—if we also guide our lives by them—then we can help to keep America growing better, and better, and better.

And if we follow these Principles of America, we can help make the world a better place to live in, too.

The Principles of America are these...

1. Each Person is of Importance and Value as an Individual.

This is the cornerstone... the foundation of all our other beliefs in a person's right to live his own life, to speak for himself, to choose and change his leaders.

From it comes our hatred of those "isms" under which the individual has no value or importance as a person, but is only one of many unimportant people who have to live the way their leaders tell them to.

Coming directly from that first principle are two other principles that are also part of the foundation of Americanism.

2. We Believe that All Men should Enjoy Personal Freedom.

3. We Believe that All Men are Created Equal.

It is worth noting that the Declaration of Independence expressed the belief that "all men are created equal." It did not state or imply a belief that men develop equally or have equal ability, or that they should ever be forced to an exact equality of thought, speech or material possessions.

That would be equality without freedom. Americans have always believed the two should go together.

From the days of the Declaration of Independence and the writing of the Constitution, Americans have known that even though Life, Liberty, and other unalienable rights are granted to man by his Creator, they require some protection by man himself.

So, in our Constitution, and in other laws of our land, there are set down principles to protect the rights and freedoms and equality of individuals. And these principles play an important part in keeping America a good place in which to live.

4. The Right to Freedom of Speech.

This includes freedom of the press, of radio, of motion pictures, of every means by which man may express his thoughts on any subject.

5. The Right to Freedom of Assembly.

As we believe in the right of individual action, so we believe that individuals should be free to act together for the benefit of all. This is Democracy.

6. The Right to Freedom of Worship.

Not only is the individual free to worship as he will, but religions themselves are free and equal... regardless of their size or their beliefs.

7. The Right to Security of Person and Property.

Not just one, but three Amendments to the Constitution (4th, 5th and 14th) protect against illegal search and seizure, or loss of life, liberty, or property, without "due process of law."

8. The Right to Equal Protection before the Law.

As individuals are equally important, so laws must apply equally to all, without special privileges for any particular individuals or groups.

9. The Right to Freedom from Slavery.

This includes "the right to quit," for no individual may be forced to work for another.

10. The Right to Petition the Government.

The legally guaranteed right of the individual to "petition the government for redress of grievances" is evidence of the American belief that government is the servant, not the master, of the people.

11. The Right to Vote for people of your choice.

This is the individual's most potent weapon in the protection of his rights and freedoms... a weapon that to be effective must be constantly and wisely used.

The Principles of America hold that every man has...

12. The Right to a Good Education.

13. The Right to Live where he pleases.

14. The Right to Work where he wants to.

15. The Right to Join and Belong to an Organization.

16. The Right to Own Property.

17. The Right to Start his Own Business.

18. The Right to Manage his Own Affairs.

19. The Right to Make a Profit or to Fail, depending on his Own Ability.

There are other, similar rights of individual action which are Principles of America, but all of these individual rights may be combined in these two broad principles...

20. Every Man is entitled to Freedom and Equality of Opportunity.

21. Every Man may Earn his Living When, Where, and How he wants to.

There are also Limiting Principles...

Principles of individual freedom sometimes clash with those of individual equality. Therefore our rights as individuals must be limited, and those limitations are themselves principles.

22. The Rights of any Individual shall not Interfere with the Equal Rights of Other Individuals.

Your right to swing your arms stops where the other fellow's nose starts.

23. The Rights of any Individual shall not Interfere with the Welfare of the People as a Whole.

Freedom of speech does not give the individual the right to shout "fire" in a crowded theatre.

24. Every Individual owes Obedience to the Laws under which he Lives.

The individual has the right to talk against a law, to work and vote to change that law, but NOT to disobey that law.

Principles that are Patterns of Behavior...

Many of our principles of individual freedom and equality are guaranteed to us by law.

But we have other beliefs, other general rules of action and conduct that have grown to the status of principles. They have stood the test of time. They have worked. They have become a basic part of the way we live and of the way we look at things.

These principles, too, are foundations of Americanism. They are as true, if not more true, today than they were in 1850 or in 1750.

If America stays free, they will still hold true in 2050.

25. Every Man shall be Judged by his Own Record.

A man's family background, his race or his religion, is not as important as what that man himself can do, for Americans believe a man must stand on his own feet.

26. Every Man is Free to Achieve as much as he can.

We believe that where any boy may become President, where any man may achieve greatness, there is the greatest incentive for every man to do his best.

27. To Achieve anything, a Man should be Willing to Work.

Americans have always known that "you don't get something for nothing," that to get anything takes a willingness to work and to work hard.

28. Achievement also Depends upon the Ability to do a Good Job.

Add to "willingness to work" the ability to produce results and the combination is the basis for most individual achievement in our country.

29. Every Man has the Right to a Fair Share of the Results of his Work and his Ability.

Because of this belief, America has not only produced more goods, but they have been more fairly and more widely shared by more people than in any other country.

30. Security is the Ability of a Man to Provide for himself.

The only true security for any individual is the opportunity, the ability, and the determination to work and plan and save for his own present and future. Self-reliance is vital to individual independence and personal freedom. No man can be "proud and free" who depends on others for his security.

31. When an Individual cannot Provide his own Security, the Responsibility should be Assumed by Others.

We believe that no one should starve, or be without adequate clothing and shelter, so those who have more than their basic needs share the responsibility of providing the essentials of security for those who need help.

Printed as a Public Service by

The Salem News

32. Every Individual must Deal Fairly with other Individuals.

Honesty, fairness, and personal integrity are virtues that help free and independent individuals get along with each other without losing their independence.

33. Fair and Free Competition is a Good Thing.

Americans have always believed that competition among individuals or groups encourages greater effort which in turn brings greater benefits to all.

34. Cooperation among Individuals is Vitaly Important.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER has said: "The freedom to compete vigorously accompanied by a readiness to cooperate wholeheartedly for the performance of community and national functions, together make our system the most productive on earth."

Principles of Individual Responsibility...

Freedom for individuals carries with it an equal responsibility to use that freedom wisely. Therefore, if we wish to remain free, we must faithfully fulfill our responsibilities as free men.

35. The Individual is Responsible for himself and his Family.

He must protect them and provide for their present and future well-being.

36. The Individual has Responsibilities to the Groups of which he is a Part.

He must give of his best to his community, his church, his employer, his union, and to every group in which individuals cooperate for their mutual benefit.

37. The Individual has Responsibilities to his Country.

He must be an active citizen, interesting himself in local, state, and national government, voting wisely, thinking and speaking and acting to preserve and strengthen freedom, equality and opportunity for every individual.

38. The Individual has Responsibilities to the World.

Man's horizons have expanded. What happens in the world affects him, and his actions can affect the world. Today, therefore, each man has a responsibility to act—and to encourage his country to act—so that freedom and cooperation will be encouraged among the people and the nations of the world.

For America's Future

Most of us are still confident of ourselves and of our country. We do not claim perfection. But we have faith in our ability to move forward, to improve, to grow, to provide more and more individuals with more and more of everything they want and need in life...

If we, the people of the United States, want to have more material benefits, we must believe in and follow these two principles:

39. The only way we can Have More is to Produce More; and

40. As we Produce More, we must make it possible for More and More People to Enjoy that which we Produce.

If we, the people of the United States, want to have a better life, spiritually as well as materially...

41. We must stand firmly for our Beliefs, our Rights, our Principles.

WALT WHITMAN, writing nearly 100 years ago, put it this way:

"There is no week, nor day, nor hour when tyranny may not enter upon this country if the people lose their supreme confidence in themselves..."

There are those who would chip away our confidence so that their special brand of tyranny might creep into America. They must not succeed. So, let us ask of every plan, or act, or idea...

Is it With or Against the Principles of America?

Miss Helen Welker, Harry Guy Are Wed In St. Jacob's Church

Miss Helen Welker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Welker of RD 5, Lisbon, and Harry Guy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Guy of RD 2, Lisbon, were married Friday at 2 p.m. at the Bible centered altar setting in St. Jacob's Church.

Adding beauty to the decorative motif were gold vases of white hydrangeas and palms in the light of tall white tapers.

Mrs. William Bailey, soloist, sang "Oh Promise Me" and "I Love

You Truly." After the ceremony was solemnized by the pastor, Rev. E. D. Fager, Mrs. Bailey sang, "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple remained kneeling. Mrs. Vivian Tullis, organist, heralded the bride with the traditional marches and was accompanist for the soloist.

Guests from Salem, Youngstown, Leetonia, Lisbon, Wierdon, W. Va., and Beaver, Pa., witnessed the wedding and stayed to congratulate the couple at the reception in the church parlor.

The bride was gowned in white net and lace over satin, complete with chapel train. The high neckline was enhanced with a seed pearl pattern and insert panels of lace made a note of contrast in the fully-fashioned skirt of net. Holding the bride's illusion veil in place was a tiara embellished with seed pearls. She carried white carnations and baby breath in her bridal bouquet.

Miss Roberta Griffith of Letonia was maid of honor, and the bride's sister, Dorothy, was bridesmaid.

Both wore bouffant gowns of aqua net over satin and pink corsages of roses for contrast.

Joe Morris of Youngstown was best man for his cousin. Ushers were Carl Peterson of Lisbon and Calvin Strobble of Youngstown.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Welker chose a navy and white costume and Mrs. Guy appeared in white with pink. Both mothers had corsages of pink roses.

The three-tiered wedding cake was the center of attraction at the reception table where crystal and silver vied in the appointments with pink roses. Miss Evelyn Reeder and Miss Shirley Zeidler were assisted in serving by Mrs. Kenneth Clapsadle and Mrs. Howard Wilhelm. Mrs. Wilhelm was in charge of arranging the church decor. The newlyweds received their 75 guests in a background setting of myrtle.

When the couple return from their short honeymoon trip they will reside with the Welker's for the present.

The bride, a stenographer in the Stallo Bailey insurance firm, was a student in Leetonia schools. Her husband attended school in Youngstown and served three and a half years in the Marines, part of the time in the Pacific theater. He is employed as brakeman for the Erie Railroad.

Bird Club Holds Panel Discussion

The importance of a good field guide in identifying birds was emphasized during a panel discussion before the Salem Bird Study Club Friday evening at the Memorial Building.

The panel, composed of Roy Booth of Damascus, Ray Marshall of Leetonia and William C. Baker of Salem, considered R. T. Peterson's "Field Guide to Eastern Birds" and Richard Pough's "Audubon Bird Guide" as the best available at the present time.

The latter is illustrated by Don Eckelberry, a native of nearby Sebring. Mr. Eckelberry, a corresponding member of the Salem club is rated highly as a painter of birds.

In the business session, a number of former local bird students were elected corresponding members. Among these are Dr. Myron T. Sturgeon of Athens, O., Paul A. Stewart of Westerville, Alta Smith of Lakeside, E. O. Mellinger, refuge manager of Chincoteague Federal Wildlife Refuge, Virginia; Vernon Weingart of Mantua, and Ray Crewson of the U. S. Air Force.

Plans were completed for the next field trip of the club to be made Sunday, July 11, to Tomlinson Run state park near Chester, W. Va., and will include a picnic lunch.

3 Tribe Pitchers Hold Sox To One Hit; Doby Gets 2 RBIs

Washington Defeated 3-0 By Yankees

NEW YORK, July 4 (AP)—Rookie Bob Grim blanked Washington with five hits today for his first major league shutout as the New York Yankees downed the Senators 3-0. Yogi Berra drove in the first two Yank runs with a single in the sixth and successive doubles by Bill Skowron and Andy Carey added the other run in the seventh.

Grim settled down after a shaky start to win his ninth game to three defeats. Johnny Pesky's double and a walk to Pete Runnels put him in trouble in the first. Tom Umphlett's single and a walk to Joe Tipton provided another threat in the second but Grim helped himself by covering first base to complete a double play.

The Yanks were held to two hits in the first five innings. With one out in the sixth, Lefty Maury McDermott walked Grim. Singles by Jerry Coleman and Irv Noren loaded the bases, but Eddie Yost made a great play on Mickey Mantle's trickling grounder to force Grim at the plate. Berra then came through with a bloop single to center, scoring both Coleman and Noren.

Skowron and Carey opened the seventh with successive doubles to make it 3-0.

In action Friday night, Eljer took Fishers 13-5 and Mullinshipped Sekely 4-2.

A six-run rally in the third frame, highlighted by Larry Marks' home-run, led Eljer to his win over Fishers. Jones and Linder each had three hits for the winners. Danny Krichbaum and Delfavero had two safeties for Fishers.

Mullins and Sekely collected three hits each but Mullins picked up four first inning runs to win.

Junior Legion Team Nips Columbiana 8-7

Fred Ziegler's clutch pitching enabled Salem Junior Legion team to stay alive in the County playoffs as the locals eliminated Columbiana 8-7 in overtime Sunday at East Palestine.

After Salem lost 14-3 to East Palestine Saturday and Columbiana dropped a Saturday tilt to East Liverpool, Salem needed the win to continue in the double-elimination playoffs.

In a scheduled seven-inning game, Salem led 7-3 until the last of the sixth when the losers knotted the count with a 4-run rally.

After Salem finally scored a big run in the top of the ninth, the Clippers came back to load the bases in the bottom of the ninth with no one out.

However Salem hurler Fred Ziegler struck out three straight to preserve the win. Matt Klein was the starting pitcher for Salem with Ziegler relieving in the sixth.

Mellinger takes the loss for Columbiana.

Lowell Hoffmaster, Jim Fife, Jon Ehrhart and Dave Hanna each had two hits to pace the 10-hit attack. Salem will play the loser of the Potter-Palestine tilt Tuesday at East Palestine at 6 p.m.

Zaharias Wins Third Women's Title

PEABODY, Mass., July 4 (AP)—Babe Zaharias, celebrating her third Women's National Open Golf Championship, said today, "I feel good for 20 more years."

The titanic Texan, acclaimed America's greatest woman athlete of all time, quickly dispelled reports she might be ready to retire because of a cancer operation 15 months ago.

"If I've ever had any doubts that I might be able to go on—and let me tell you I've had plenty," the Babe said, "then they are gone now."

"For the first time since the operation, I feel like the same old Babe again. I'm hitting the ball. I've got my concentration back."

Mrs. Zaharias gave an overpowering exhibition — perhaps the greatest sustained golf ever in a women's championship—in winning her third open at the Salem Country Club yesterday by 12 strokes.

Little Betty Hicks of Durham, N. C., was second at 303, followed by Louise Suggs at 307, defending champion Betsy Rawls and 19-year-old Mary (Mickey) Wright, an up-and-coming amateur, at 308.

Merchants Shut Out Lisbon 10-0, 4-0

The Salem Merchants swept a double-header from Lisbon Sunday with a pair of low-hit shut-outs at the Kensington field. Scores were 10-0 and 4-0.

Jim Barnes and Hank Siefke were the pitching stars, Barnes hurling a one-hitter in the first game and Siefke allowing only four hits in the second tilt.

In the first game, Clyde Marks had three singles and a double and Red Weingart connected for four singles to lead the 16-hit assault. A five-run outburst in the second inning clinched the victory.

Bob Loudon, Barnes and Myron Stallsmith each had two hits for Salem. Muntean had Lisbon's only bingle.

Barnes, striking out nine men and walking two, has won six games and lost one this season.

WEINGART AND SIEFKE were the second game hitting stars. The centerfielder blasted a second-inning home run for the first score of the game and added a double later. Siefke recorded two singles and a double.

Salem score in the second on Weingart's homer, added one more in the third but neither team scored again in the tight battle until the Merchants sent two more tallies home in the top of the last inning.

It was Siefke's third win against a lone defeat.

The locals, which now have won 15 and dropped only two games, enjoy a commanding 2½ game lead over second place East Liverpool with only 11 games remaining on the schedule.

In other action Sunday, Liverpool took New Galilee 10-0 and New Waterford, now in third place, dropped Kensington 15-3. Thursday, Waterford shut out New Galilee 6-0.

Wednesday, New Galilee will come into Salem, New Springfield will be at East Liverpool, East Palestine plays at New Waterford and Kensington invades Lisbon.

Musial Highest Vote Getter In All-Star Baseball Tabulation

CHICAGO, July 4 (AP)—Stan (The Man) Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals emerged today as the highest individual vote getter in the final tabulation of the all-star baseball poll.

Musial, six-time National League batting champion, polled 1,468,377 of the 4,272,470 votes cast by baseball fans throughout the world.

Trailing Musial as first choice were Cleveland's Al Rosen, 1,452,736; and the New York Yankees' Yogi Berra, 1,449,386.

Three national leaguers and five American leaguers repeated as winners from last year's vote for starting berths in the 21st annual Classic July 13 at Cleveland.

Rules of the voting poll require that players named as starters be permitted to play the first three innings before being replaced.

Don't Wait - Get After Weeds In Your Garden Immediately

By HENRY FREE

Written for NEA Service

Get after the weeds as soon as they are noticeable. Weeding is work but a well-maintained garden is most attractive. Generally one can keep ahead of the weeds if the beds are handweeded once every two weeks.

The foliage of daffodils, narcissus, hyacinth and tulip is still too green to cut off — but the wise gardener will give a light application of a fertilizer strong in phosphorus to the soil about the plants. This feeding is necessary to encourage more leaf production and to aid in the flower development for next year.

Annuals to take the place of the spring bulbs that have finished

Keep after the weeds if you want to have a pretty garden.

blooming may be sown or planted now, between the plants. Sweet alyssum, petunia, marigold and other annuals may be used.

Commercial vegetable growers profit by learning to recognize the specific insects and diseases affecting their crops and then applying the chemical sprays or dusts that work best on particular pests they have to fight.

Home vegetable gardeners with only small plots can profit and save time by buying one of the

"all-purpose" mixtures that are now on the market. The various manufacturers have their own formulas. Some of the newest, most effective, and safest ones contain: Methoxychlor (insecticide), malathion (insecticide), fermetate, zineb or biram (fungicides).

Some of them also contain rotenone — a good insecticide for crops such as beans and leafy greens where a poisonous residue might be injurious to human health. In fact, on those crops it would be well to use rotenone alone.

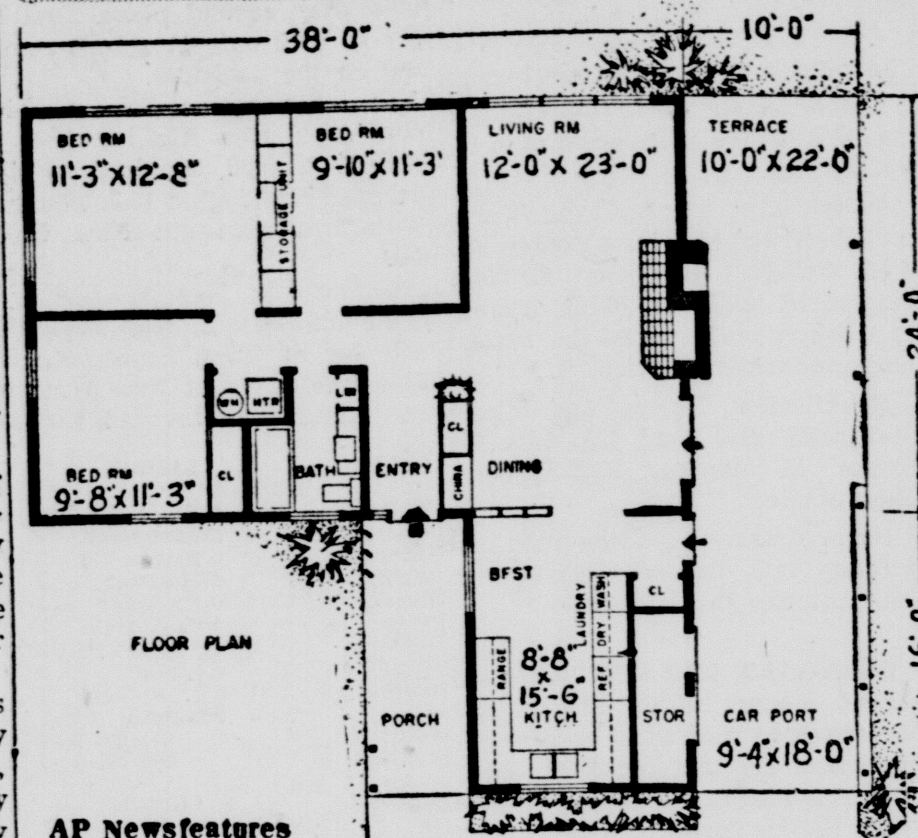

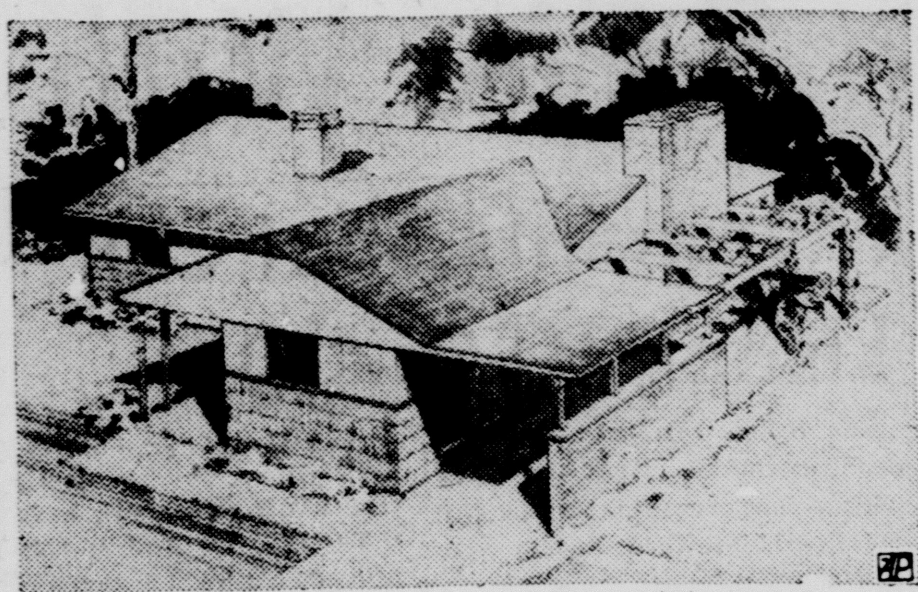

If a good job of controlling pests has been done early it should not be necessary to spray or dust close to harvest time. Copper and sulfur are sometimes injurious to some vegetables as is also DDT. Be sure to read manufacturers' labels for ingredients and follow directions.

Insect damage to juniper plantings in some sections is likely to be heavy this year. Cause of the trouble is juniper scale, a tiny pest that covers ornamental evergreens with minute whitish scales. Unless home owners take steps to kill the insects, many junipers may die or become unsightly.

Best method to control juniper scale, according to R. B. Neilsen, agricultural expert, is to spray with malathion. This is one of the newer insecticides developed since the war and is sufficiently safe for anyone to use.

Foliage of infested plants appears brownish and thin. Less severely affected plants are yellowish, droopy and often have a greasy appearance. Close examination by the home owner will reveal minute white scales attached to the foliage.

WAX PAPER makes it possible to use recently painted stair treads or floors which remain tacky for a few hours. The light wax film that may be left on the paint is harmless.

New Plastics Can Remake Kitchen

BY VIVIAN BROWN

If you are bored with your old kitchen cupboards and can't afford to buy new ones right now, you can dress them up with laminated plastic sheeting available in wood-grained patterns—oak, pine, mahogany, maple.

Your home handyman may find this high pressure laminate in 4 x 8 foot sizes at building supply dealers. If it is to work properly old cabinets must be of smooth construction, and at least three-fourths of an inch in thickness. Or it can be used on new cabinets of inexpensive plywood.

The handyman will need an 11-point hand saw for straight sawing, a scroll saw for cutting curves, a fine file, a block plane, and a kitchen rolling pin. Materials include the laminate, adhesive and heavy wrapping paper.

The wrapping paper serves as a pattern. It is cut to the exact dimensions of the counter tops. It is kept between the cemented surface and the laminate until the laminate cover is ready to be put in place. This preparation gives you the opportunity to size up the project before the laminate touches the cement, and becomes immovable.

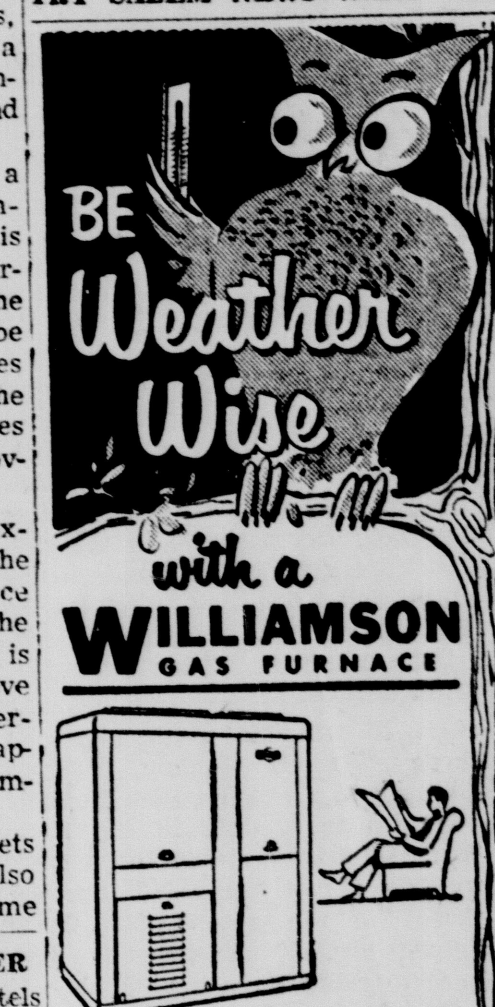

The laminate is cut about a sixteenth of an inch larger than the pattern all around. This surface may be planed off later when the laminate is cemented. The edge is then beveled with a file to improve its appearance and make it perfectly smooth. The rolling pin applies pressure when the top is cemented down.

Many new homes have cabinets of this type. The cabinets are also available ready-made in department stores. Usually the interiors of these cabinets are enameled in a color to harmonize with the wood grain of the outside.

These laminates are said not to need waxing or polishing. Their surface is said to be proof against ordinary household stains — alcohol, acids, bleaches, ink, etc. They are supposed to be highly resistant to cigarette burns and boiling water.

Fixit Forum

Q — I am remodeling my home and want to put in windows that aren't likely to twist or warp. Are such windows available?

A — Yes. Ask for "treated" windows made of ponderosa pine. Manufacturers protect ponderosa pine windows from moisture by treating them with a water-repellent, preservative chemical which reduces swelling, warping, shrinking, and rotting to a negligible minimum. Treated windows operate smoothly without sticking. The treatment does not discolor the wood. It serves as an excellent base for paint. The same treatment is used for exterior panel doors.

Q — My house has clapboard siding and I am having trouble with peeling paint. What can I do to prevent this?

A — According to Prof. C. E. Lund, University of Minnesota, who discusses the problem in American Builder magazine, one remedy is to paint the interior surfaces of all exterior walls with a vapor-sealer paint. A rubber base paint or a paint with a high varnish content will provide a good vapor barrier. Before applying the finish coat, apply two base coats of paint.

Q — The plaster in my house is old and has become chalky. I would like to wallpaper a wall, but the wallpaper won't stick well. What can I do to correct this condition?

A — Shellac the wall first. This will harden the surface so that the wallpaper will hold.

A HANDLE HANDY

A piece of a corrugated box or a scrap of hardboard or plywood can make a handy rack for wooden knobs when you paint or varnish desk drawers or cabinet doors. Drill holes for the knob bolts to hold the knobs for drying while you get a drip-free finish on the drawer or door front.

A VARNISH TIP

Don't shake a can of varnish or varnish-stain immediately before using. Shaking will put bubbles in the varnish. But the paint experts advise thorough stirring for enamels, digging the paddle to the bottom and stirring until the paint has an even consistency.

Wood Paneling Dresses Up Fireplace Walls

YOUR FIREPLACE can be made the center of interest in your living room by the addition of warm, elegant wood paneling.

Man-made innovations in wall paneling materials are all the rage these days, but natural-lumber paneling still retains its prestige. It compares favorably in price and is no more difficult to install.

The installation of either kind of wall covering would be simplicity itself if all rooms were built like boxes — without wall projections or openings. But where the smooth expanse of wall is broken by doors, windows or fireplaces, complications arise.

In the case of a fireplace wall, says the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, the answer is to start paneling directly over the fireplace. Since paneling there catches the eye first, it should start at the center line of the fireplace and go in both directions away from the center. The best and most attractive boards should be used over the fireplace.

To prepare the walls for natural-lumber paneling all molding, baseboards, picture or plate rails, etc., are removed. Then it is necessary to locate the wall studs behind the plaster.

Do this by driving a nail into the plaster until a stud is struck. When two adjacent studs are found the distance between them can be determined, and the rest will be then added all around the fireplace, easy to locate. Studs are commonly placed 16, 18, or 24 inches apart, center-to-center.

Now draw lines on the wall along stud centers from floor to ceiling. Using the stud lines as guides, nail three horizontal strips of 1x3-inch lumber to the wall. Nail one at the base of the wall, one along the top at the ceiling, and one level with the top of the fireplace mantel.

If the wall is perfectly true, with no humps or depressions, the nailing strips are easy to place, but if the wall is uneven it may be necessary to drive wedges behind them in spots so that paneling will lie flat against the strips.

Therefore, it is best to set the strips temporarily with just a few nails and test them with a straight-edge board. Then fasten the strips to studs with six-penny common nails long enough to go through the strip, plaster and into studding.

Then, starting at the exact center line of the fireplace, fasten wood paneling to nailing strips. Four-penny common nails or No. 6 wood screws may be used at the top and bottom of each panel, since these will be covered later with molding. For exposed nailing use finishing nails, which have tapered heads.

Where screws are used, counter-sink them. To accommodate either screws or common nails, predrill holes in panels. The same diameter as screw or nail shanks, the holes reduce the chance of splitting for finishing nails.

An attractive stock molding is then added all around the fireplace, and at ceiling and floor level. Molding gives a finished look and conceals small gaps and imperfections in the carpentry work — such as uneven lengths of paneling or ragged edges where a panel has been cut to fit around the side of the fireplace.

Since the installation of paneling was started at the center line of the fireplace, boards at either side of the opening end up equal in width. This adds to the professional-quality look of the finished job and also simplifies the panel-board installation on the wall as a whole.

PAINT BRUSH CARE

To prevent a paint brush from drying and stiffening while you take time out for lunch, load the brush with the paint or varnish you are using and wrap it securely in wax paper or aluminum foil. This will keep it moist for a short recess.

TELLS OF BIG PROFIT—Attorney Carl Budwesky, counsel for the Shirley Duke corporation, builders of a $13,846,000 apartment project in Alexandria, Va., denies anyone was "cheated" in the operation which netted "windfall" profits of more than two million dollars. He said it was a "question of who got the money." Budwesky testified before the Senate Banking committee in probe of FHA operations.

Goshen Grange Hears

Reports On Projects

Mrs. Lester Burton reported on recent successful projects held as money-making projects for Goshen

Grange at the Friday meeting in the hall. Mrs. William Marshall, for the home economics committee, explained about the Magnetic

Springs polo fund, and the project which will be undertaken as the fund benefit.

Announcement was made of the National Grange "goodwill" tour of Europe in October, and of the state contest among subordinate granges in securing candidates for the sixth degree.

It was reported that the lecturer, Albert Capel, was hurt in jumping from a wagon and that Mrs.

Lewis Starbuck is in the hospital.

As Mr. Capel was not present,

Mrs. Marshall presented the patriotic program following the anouncement of county grange

"goodtime" party Wednesday and an exchange meeting Friday, both at Garfield Grange.

Mrs. Eldon Maris told about

"The Flag," and the prize-winner

Peace essay "I Am An American" written by an Akron girl, was read by Mrs. Marshall, who concluded her program with questions concerning the July 4 holiday. All joined in the singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

In the juvenile grange Mrs. Wade

Schaefer read the stories, "The

New Family," and "Happy and Hoppy," and conducted games and charades.

Eldon Maris and Dick Rhodes

were named to decide about a grange picnic. The next meeting will be Friday, July 16.

Holiday

Traffic was backed up 10 miles and it took four hours to unsnarl it.

A bee flew into another car in Massachusetts. The distraction caused the vehicle to ram a tree. The result: A woman killed and her companion seriously injured.

If the 430 traffic deaths predicted by the Safety Council occur, this weekend's toll will surpass the 1952 record of 366 for a three-day fourth of July holiday by 64. The three-day accident fatality high, counting all types of mishaps, was 676 in 1949.

The death toll by states—traffic, drownings and miscellaneous:

Alabama 7 3 0; Arizona 2 0 0; Arkansas 3 1 0; California 16 4 1; Colorado 2 0 2; Connecticut 3 0 0; Florida 3 3 0; Georgia 7 0 0; Illinois 5 0 3; Indiana 11 0 3; Iowa 3 2 0; Kansas 4 0 0; Kentucky 4 1 0; Maine 1 2 1; Maryland 3 0 2; Massachusetts 2 0 2; Michigan 8 0 2;

Minnesota 1 2 0; Mississippi 3 1 1; Missouri 2 2 1; Montana 1 1 0; Nebraska 1 0 0; New Hampshire 1 3 1; New Jersey 7 1 1; New York 3 6 2; North Carolina 3 4 0; Ohio 10 1 3; Oklahoma 2 1 0; Pennsylvania 5 1 0; Rhode Island 1 0 0; South Carolina 1 3 0; South Dakota 1 0 0; Tennessee 3 1 1; Texas 8 2 0; Vermont 1 0 0; Virginia 1 3 2; Washington 1 1 0; West Virginia 0 1 1; Wisconsin 5 1 0; Wyoming 1 0 0.

Army (Vietminh) is aware of the important mission of this conference. It will spare no effort to bring it to a successful conclusion, not only to put into rapid execution the agreements reached by both parties at Geneva and to settle on the spot the questions they deem necessary to raise, but also to make useful suggestions to the Geneva conference with the purpose of rapidly reaching a cease fire, an armistice, and the reestablishment of peace in Indochina.

"We are ready to believe that the delegation of the high command of the French Union force in Indochina is animated by the same sincere desire to put a rapid end to hostilities. In the interests of the peoples of Indochina and of France, we wish this conference to have good results."

Col. Paul Lennuyaux, head of the French delegation, made it plain the French consider the main conference is the one at Geneva.

"It is not up to us to decide the issue of the war here," he said. "It is only our business to study concrete remedies for certain painful problems born of the war and how, if Geneva should so decide, an end can be made of the fighting locally."

He added the French delegation would carefully avoid any general, political, ideological, or propagandistic discussion. Lennuyaux declared:

"We have met to seek out together all the conditions for the practical application of the decisions made at Geneva. We also shall propose, taking into account our detailed knowledge of the situation in this country, concrete solutions which may enlighten and help the negotiators at Geneva in their work on the decisions they will have to make."

While the Vietminh sent only five delegates, the French Union is represented by five French and three Vietnamese officers. The rebels may have cut the size of their delegation to emphasize their claim the Vietnamese are not really representatives.

To avoid trouble, no flags were placed in the meeting room, which has two entrances, one for each side. Reporters sat behind the delegation to which they are accredited, while photographers were permitted to roam about freely to look for good angle shots. Among representatives were 15 French newsmen and 13 Vietminh correspondents.

year extension of 90 per cent supports but Aiken said he is confident that the Senate would reverse this decision.

Mundt, Young and other backers of rigid high level farm supports think they have a chance of winning on the Senate floor.

Earlier this year the Senate rejected by a 48-40 vote an effort to extend rigid supports. It was offered as a rider to a separate wool bill which the House included in its general farm bill now back on the Senate floor.

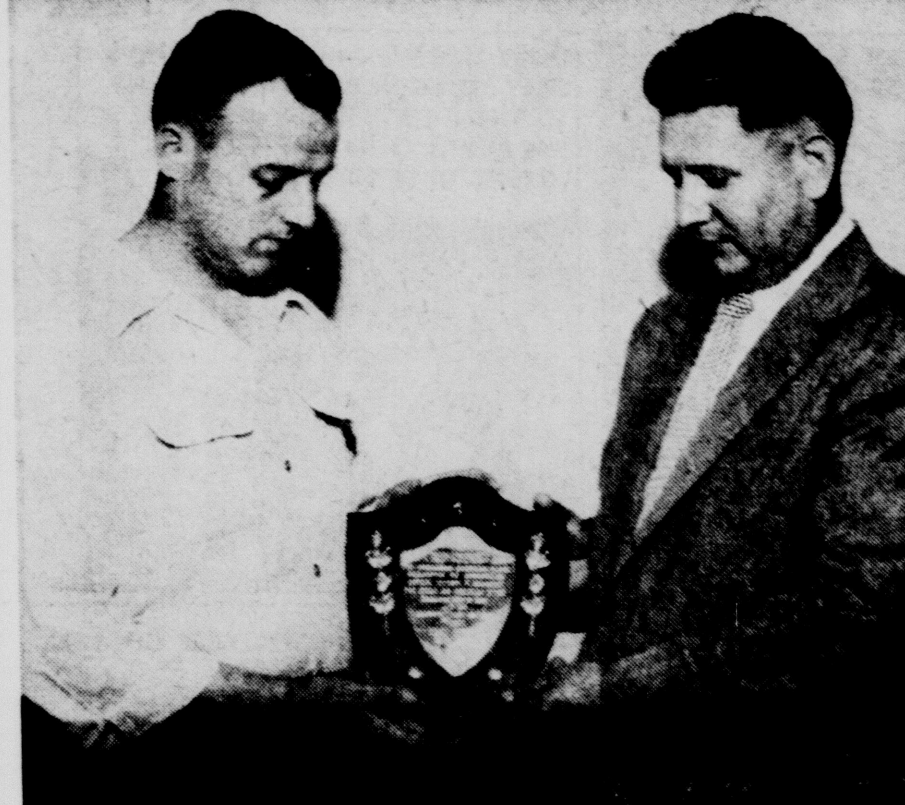

Some senators who voted against rigid supports then said they might favor them later but did not want to clutter up the wool bill. Eight senators were not recorded on that test.

PRESENTED AWARD—Gail Herron (left), owner of Herron's Transfer Co. and president of the City Park Commission, is presented the John L. Smith achievement award by Mike Oana, commander of the local Amvets post. The award reads, "For outstanding leadership to the organization and untiring effort in preserving the ideals and principals of the American way of life." Herron won the rotating trophy last year for his work in connection with the construction of a municipal swimming pool here and this year was presented with a permanent plaque. Given by the Ohio Department of Amvets award and citations committee, the award is named after the past national commander of Ohio, John L. Smith of Barberton.

floor for action had only 136 signatures when the House recessed Friday. A total of 218, or a majority of the 435 members, is necessary to override the Rules Committee.

With Republican leaders shooting for congressional adjournment by July 31, there appeared little chance of getting a bill through both House and Senate even if its backers succeeded in getting the necessary 218 signatures.

Osteopath's Wife Hacked To Death

CLEVELAND, July 4 (AP)—The attractive, 30-year-old wife of a Bay Village osteopath was found hacked to death in her bedroom today. Her husband told a grim tale of battling her attacker in the house, down outside stairway to a private beach and along the shore of Lake Erie in the plush suburb which lies west of Cleveland.

The first word of the crime came early this morning when Dr. Samuel G. Sheppard phoned the suburb's mayor, J. Spencer Houk, and gasped:

"For God's sake, Spence, get over here quick. I think they have killed Marilyn!"

Houk and his wife rushed to the osteopath's home to find him lying in a semi-conscious condition against a chair in the living room. Upstairs was the pajama-clad body of his blonde wife, sprawled on a bed with about 30 wounds from a sharp object about her face and head.

The Sheppards' six-year-old son, Samuel Jr., was found asleep in the next room.

Dr. Sheppard, 30, who was taken to Bay View Hospital for treatment of head injuries, told police the following story:

He had fallen asleep last night while listening to the Cleveland Indians-Chicago White Sox baseball game on the radio. Some time later he awakened with the feeling he had heard his wife scream. He rushed upstairs only to have something crack across his head as he reached the top.

He blacked out and next recalled that he was chasing one man, or perhaps two, through weeds in the back yard, down the stairway to the beach fighting and grappling as he went. Then he blacked out again and when he awoke, discovered that he had fallen into the water at the edge of the shore.

He returned to the house and saw his wife's body and then lost consciousness again before finally getting to the phone and calling Mayor Houk.

Police said two desks and Dr. Sheppard's medicine kit had been ransacked, leading to a theory that the intruder or intruders may have been seeking narcotics.

Invisible Film Kills

Ants And Roaches

A modern insecticide written up in a national digest magazine is contained in a new product known as Roach Filmz. A white liquid, brushed on surfaces, leaves an invisible film that's effective for months. The invisible film paralyzes their legs and they die.

Roach Filmz comes in three sizes: 8 oz. 69c, Pint $1.19, Quart $1.95. Available at Flooding & Reynard.
